~ Dedication ~

Official Opening of Tower Road Campus May 30, 2003

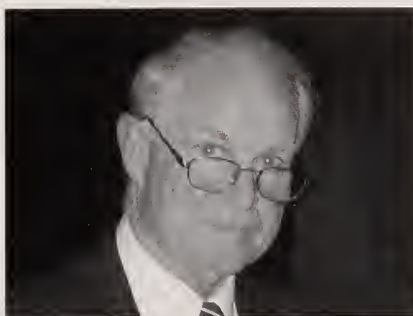

Mr. Brian MacLellan, Chairman of the Board of Governors, is pictured with Her Honour the Honourable Myra A. Freeman, Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia, at the Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony, officially opening the Tower Road Campus on May 30, 2003.

This year marked an important and special occasion for those who make up the HGS community, and the wider community of Greater Halifax, as we officially opened the Tower Road Campus. On May 30, 2003, we officially celebrated the acquisition and expansion of HGS campus facilities. While the character of this grand old building most definitely remains, over the past three years, an effort has been made to create a special place for our children to learn and our community to gather.

Beginning in May 2000, the Tower Road School has received a new art room, The Silver Art Studio, as well as an expansion of administrative offices and the construction of a theatre auditorium, The Meinertzhagen Theatre. The culmination and success of these projects could not have been achieved without much dedication and the many donations and support of parents, staff, and volunteers alike. While it has been three years since we've moved into this magnificent building, the excitement of having this site for our school is still just as thrilling for us today. We look forward to the wonderful days ahead of us at the Tower Road Campus as we dedicate this edition of The Grammarian to the future of HGS and the Official Opening of Tower Road Campus.

Headmaster's

M e s s a g e

We celebrate excellence at the Halifax Grammar School and the graduation of the diverse and talented Class of 2003.

The graduates are not celebrating a liberation or a happy ending, but rather a happy beginning.

How the rest of your life turns out depends on factors other than the individual initiative drive, talent, charm, character, and knowledge you have developed here at HGS. The final outcome depends on your emotional ties with family and friends, the influence of future teachers, external influences such as war and the economy, the whims of government, how you respond to the vicissitudes and accidents of life and, to a large extent, what you do with the time providence gives you.

You see, you can choose the roles you play in life, but you cannot choose your historic time. The 19th Century was a time of tremendous opportunity, even though formal education escaped the vast majority of people. For example, the builder of the CPR, Sir William Van Horne, was expelled from school in 1856 at the age of 14 for drawing rude caricatures of his teachers. Today, such impudence would probably end up printed in the yearbook. Van Horne's subsequent self-directed liberal education, which saw him read a book a day, led him to become an academically honoured botanist and paleontologist, and to have a dozen of his best paintings hung in the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. His business acumen and engineering genius with the CPR are legendary.

My father was born in 1900 and, from the age of 32 - 39, he lived the Depression without a job. He told me that it almost killed him - not the deprivation, but the devastating shame he felt because he could not provide for his family. The family survived by living with my grandparents in Montreal, and on the $50 a month my mother earned as a professional singer with the CBC.

My older sister tells me that she can't remember the deprivation of the Depression but, instead, remembers the wonderful extended family sing-songs and games, the radio programs such as the Lux Family Theatre, and the endless reading pleasures made possible by the close proximity of the Westmount Library. My sister also doesn't remember that most terrible of all afflictions - boredom - because she was never bored. I don't think many in this class have been so afflicted. Today, we live in a time of great affluence and endless trivial entertainment; but, regrettably, 60% of Canadians over 14 don't read books and the incidence of depression is the highest in history.

No less than your genetic composition, your path ahead will be shaped by the age you live in. Right now, you are at the beginning of the 21st Century - already an era stained by the legacy of 9/11, atrocities in Rwanda, global warming, and pollution - an era of phenomenal advances and atrocities - of want and waste - of confusion and creativity.

But most of you are probably asking yourselves "what now?" as you move out of this cozy little community onto a larger stage. I doubt if any of you really have a road map, but then, few of you did throughout your careers here, even though many of you leave with impressive resumes. The fact is, I don't think your Valedictorian, Robert Kitz, sat in the Prep Two sandbox thinking about winning the Leonardo da Vinci National Physics Contest. I doubt Alexander Jiang entered the School in Grade Six planning to earn a lead in the first school musical, and I am sure Kent Plummer, in Grade Seven, never dreamed about becoming Head Boy.

During your time here at HGS, most of you just followed your interests, or the interests of your friends, or the prompting of a teacher, or of your parents, to participate in something extra - something that challenged you - something that ultimately gave you internal pleasure and talents that will enrich your future life. As I sat and listened to Ben Turnbull's beautiful performance of Rachmaninoff's piano prelude at Mr. Ellis' Talent Show, I wondered how Ben first started to develop those talents - likely at his parents' prompting; but, however, he now has a talent that will enrich his life forever just as, on that night, he had enriched the evening for everyone in attendance. I also remember watching Chad Smith at a basketball game and thinking, "My God, that's poetry in motion - even when he misses."

The American poet, David Whyte, wrote, "We speak continually of saving time, but time in its richness is most often lost to us when we are busy without relief. At speed, the world becomes a blur and all those other lives we encounter become another blur too. We speak of stealing time as if it no longer belongs to us. We speak of needing time as if it wasn't around us already. We want to make time for ourselves as if it were in our power to do so. But time is the conversation with absence and visitation - and a frontier between ourselves and those we love. The hours become ripe with happening only when we are attentive, patient and present."

So, here's my hope and wish for you as you move on from HGS. I wish but two things - I wish you the bliss and blessing that comes from being swept away by a pursuit so intense that all that matters is the activity itself, in all its beauty, and logic, and sense of possibility so that you are unburdened and give yourself up to the joy of being aloft with your own sense of potential and wonder. Second, I wish that, as so many of you have here at HGS, you make the hours become ripe with happening to keep present and future relationships in which you are attentive, patient, and present, and not busy without relief... and in doing so that you include the school, your teachers, and maybe even your old Headmaster.

Sincerely,

John A. Messenger, Headmaster

From the Desk of Mr. Marchand

My sincere congratulations to the graduates of 2003 and to those of you who will graduate in the years to come. I am unabashedly proud of you and of our school. HGS is a special place and upon reflection you will no doubt agree with me that you all have been blessed with some extraordinary teachers.

From the prep school teachers who may have taught you your most fundamental lessons, to the teachers who may have been making your life miserable only weeks ago, they are an impressive group. And I can tell you from my perspective that when you enter the world of work you can have no more satisfying professional experience than I have had, working in the shadow of such fine educators and human beings. And I can also tell you that I envy you the education with which your parents have given to you. I can't imagine a more thoughtful and valuable gift.

But we must of course confess that the work of the teaching staff is made much easier by our enviable circumstance. We work in a school that is blessed with motivated students and parents. We work in a school that values education as an end, and not only as a means (a rare commodity I'm sad to say.) We also work in a school that understands that as wonderful as its hallowed halls may be, there is a world of wisdom outside the walls of HGS waiting to be discovered.

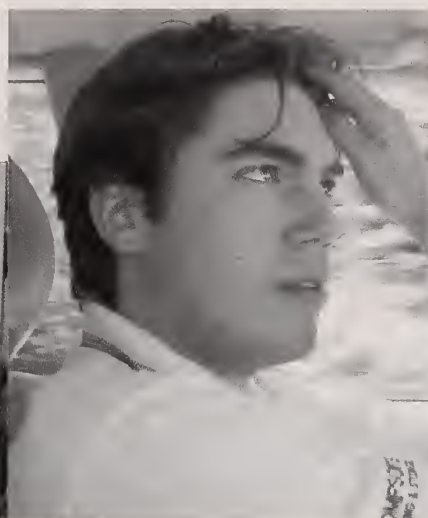

Stringfellow Barr shared this philosophy when he founded the Great Books program at St. John's College, in Maryland. The program was based upon the works of the great thinkers such as Homer, Dickens, Darwin and Freud, and Barr was once asked why the Great Books program was necessary. He responded by saying, "Don't you feel sorry for all the students in all the other schools who have no one to teach them but oafs like me?"

I must tell you, you are fortunate to be graduating from a school that doesn't just rely upon "oafs like me" to ensure that you become educated, and that has the sense to subscribe to a rigorous curriculum that is made up of the best in our culture as well as the further good sense to demand that you rise to meet it. In the years ahead you will undoubtedly realize what a gift you have been given, and what a legacy you have left to those of us who will remain behind.

It's my hope that you will also realize that the most important thing that you can know is how little you know (despite our best efforts), and that you will learn that intellectual humility is the first step on the road from mere knowledge to wisdom; a road you are all certain to travel. My best wishes go with you on that journey.

Council

"Best there is, Best there was, and Best there ever will be"
-Bret Hart, Five time Heavyweight champion

This has been quite the year for the Student's Council. There was a renaissance of initiative brought forth by a tour-de-force of ready, willing, and able prefects and executive members. We had a record number of Grammar independent dances (including a free Valentine's Day Dance), weekly pita days, a grad trip to Keji, several very successful Coffee Houses, the hypnotist, WinterCarnival, etc etc. The hours of planning and preparation for anything done by the Student Council would have been for not had we no had the support and guidance of our advisor Mathew Moffatt, Robert Marchand; Assistant Headmaster, and Gay Silverman. We would also like to thank all the students who came out to the events, like the Coffee Houses, and supported your peers, for without you nothing would have been accomplished. You gave us the opportunity to try and enhance the school atmosphere from the student perspective, and it was our utmost pleasure, privilege, and duty to try our best to do so.

ANNA ALDA

"I'm all lost in the supermarket/ I can no longer shop happily/ I came in here for that special offer/

A guaranteed personality" –The Clash (Joe Strummer/Mick Jones)

Through three stressful years at the Grammar School, Anna has remained the wonderfully sweet girl she was when she arrived in grade ten from her beloved homeland of Tantallon. Despite her geographical challenge, she always makes her way back to the city for countless good times with her friends. Anna is known for her kind nature and bubbly personality, but don't let her quiet disposition fool you; she's been known to make quick-witted jokes and the odd sarcastic remark! Anna is a brilliant student and one of the hardest working people I know, but her main passion has always been music. She delights in going to concerts and can give you a Rolling Stone worthy critique on the latest band she has discovered. I know that whatever Anna goes on to do, whether it be medical school in Prague or a career as a pianist, she will be successful and will continue to charm people wherever she goes! Lots of love Anna, hope we find ourselves lost in the streets of Montreal together again someday soon!

CHRIS BARRIE

You can't say enough about Chris. He's a wicked athlete especially in soccer where he was key. He was a cripple a few times and had a sweet gimp shoe, but that didn't stop him from coming back and burning people. He still managed to smash his butt bad on a lounge chair. That's true skill. This guy is a playa and he doesn't even have to try, girls love him (not hard to see why), he always has options. But if you are lucky enough to be with him you have to treat him right cause he doesn't forget. Whoever he ends up with is going to be someone amazing. If you're a friend of his just make sure it's not your sister. Chris is so much fun whether you're blasting "Oh No!" in his car, looking at Halloween decorations or fingering his shoes. Chris is always there to listen and he is someone you can really trust. He listens to vents about children, and talks about people who are put together wrong. See you in hell... Never forget Keji, sleeping under the stars and the walk. It was awesome; if you weren't there you wouldn't understand. This guy is amazing. He is my best friend, my buddeeee. I have so much respect for this kid and trust him with my life. Everyone he meets loves him and won't forget him. He deserves so much and will do something exceptional with his life. Good luck out there, luv always...

CRAIG BEAN

When Craig Bean is not busy slapping his G-String, or buying his fourth (maybe fifth, I lost count) bass guitar at ebay, he finds time to play bass guitar. Someday he'll be a hard-core, guitar-thumping, metal-multi-platinum-selling, MTV-Artist-of-the-Month-for-July Winner. And all 2003 alumni will be welcome to chill at his pad in Beverly Hills. Or Nashville if he makes a cross over to country music (rock on Shania. And shout-outs to the following: Tim McGraw and Puff Daddy. May you keep making million$, alright?). So back to Craig.

Craig also lives on the edge. He demonstrated this by driving the family car into a ditch in P.E.I. Fast and furious, you say? No, just really really unattentive!* But Craig also has his softer side. Only he hasn't demonstrated this, yet. How To Be a Rock Star Tip: Keep your G-String tuned/taut/tight.

*Also known as P.E.I Ditch + Rock Star = Accident Syndrome.

Like really really tight. ;)

NIPSI BELLIAPPA

Nipsi, otherwise known as Nirupama, or Heavy N (by her close friends), arrived at Grammar in grade 4 with no TV and a seemingly contrived British accent! While Nup eventually acquired a joy for television especially shows starring "studs" and "hip cats", she hasn't completely lost the British influence, which now manifests itself in her "medieval speak" (nay?). Despite these setbacks, Nips has grown to love various aspects of her Grammar life, including artistic mathematics and deutsch klasse. Also notable are her amazing guitar abilities, even if her idols are obscure 80's artists like Chris Deburgh and Michael Jackson(...) Whether it's traveling halfway across the world (alone!) or picking up random boys at Tim Hortons/Spring Garden/the Middle East, one thing is for sure, and that's that Nup is sure to succeed!.

BFsandHCsFL!-d.p.

MATT BRITNER

Matt arrived at HGS a fresh-faced lad from Ellenvale Jr. High. He's known around Grammar and Canada for his exceptional soccer skills. He was captain of the senior boy's soccer team for the past two seasons, leading them to two CAIS National championships and a provincial title. Athletics is not all that Matt has going for him. He also has an uncanny knack for avoiding all leisurely walking, ensuring that his perfectly white shoes don't get "scuffed." Matthew is also quite popular with the ladies, as they are drawn to his Josh Hartnettesque good looks and conservative, clean-cut style. Next fall, Matt will be studying business at Brown University, where he will also anchor the defense for the varsity soccer team. Matt will succeed in whatever he chooses to do with his life but one can easily imagine him making big bucks playing professional soccer in Europe. Matt, you will be greatly missed. Never forget the friends you've made at HGS because we will never forget you. Good luck in the future, keep in touch.

SHELLY BURTON

Shelly (aka Shelster to most, but to Moogs the Shelmister, Shanelly or Shexy) rushes into Grammar every morning thinking of an excuse to tell Mr. Beazley why she was late (She doesn't have time for detentions). When not in the gym practicing her post moves, or riding her horse which you'll normally hear about, this girl is out on the town scheming up random adventure with her sidekick Meaghan (Sean and Patrick Thomas, bubbling fountain, THE JEEP), or out at the local horseshow showing her moves to the local "hot" cowboy. This AE girl will always be remembered for her very unique style (zebra pants) and her amazing ways to pull off 90's in bio even when she's up till 4 in the morning before leaving for Tennessee. This is the Blondest girl you will ever meet, but her humor will provide the smile that you would need to brighten up your stressful life at Grammar. No matter what the situation is with school work, Shelly was always known to be there for her friends with undeniably the best advice anyone could provide. Your strong beliefs and your devotion to your friends will never be forgotten. Shelly, we know that you will achieve the impossible to achieve, and you will do it with class. -Meaghan Sullivan

D M I T R I B U T T E R F I E L D

D'Mitri Allen Butterfield (a.k.a. Meefee) has been at HGS for two years now. Since he has been at this school he has been an active contributor to the soccer, basketball, and track team . . . when he was allowed to play ☺ Many people describe him as a gentle giant, although I personally have experienced different. D'Mitri takes great pride in his image, and obsesses over cleaning his shoes, speaking about his shoes; he almost has enough shoes to connect Bermuda to the CONTINENTAL United States of America! Last time I believe the shoe count was around 40 pairs? Over his two-year stay at the Grammar school you could often find Meefee arguing with others over music and culture, as he tends to have very little patience for others opinions. Although D'Mitri will probably never be described as a scholar, his athletic and artistic abilities, which surpass most others, will help to carry D'Mitri far in life. His quiet voice and funny accent often makes it hard for others to understand D'Mitri, however, over the time people have been able to decipher this odd dialect he claims is English. Meefee is leaving HGS this year, he will be remembered well . . . actually he probably will be remembered as a grumpy Bermudan that complained too much and blamed others for everything. Either way, over the past two years D'Mitri has become a friend to many at HGS and will not easily be forgotten. To me he has become like a brother.

J E A N C A M E R O N

The other proud member of the JeanaMira club, Jean can be found doing 7am pre-exam McDonald drivethru's (no meat...then the calming "ahhhh"), Sunday morning Pete's Frootique dill pickle runs, and 3am Burger King poutine stops all in one of the three infamous getaway cars: The Volvo, the classier Lvo, and always remember The Esteem. In the summer, you can find her all around NS: driving half an hour to the beach, staying there for 5 minutes to get a 'tan', and then leaving realizing various cravings; or, at the airport greeting new arrivals. Jean, I know I've never told you this, but you're an inspiration. Everyday I admire and adore you more and more. I know that since the day I met you, you changed my life and made me a better person. Thanks for all the fun times hun, there's never been a dull moment; I'll miss you more than anything!

B E N C H A N D L E R

Chandler... How can you describe that guy? Weird, maybe? Different? Boring? Nonsensical? ...Different? When you come and describe Chandler, you really can't sum it up in one sentence; and I blame this mostly on his multiple personalities. I met Ben (AKA Chandler, Chandelier, Neb, Nebbles, Bensicles, Bendana, Cap'in Casanova, Green Monster, and many more I'm sure I can't remember) back in grade 8 when he was known for being "square" and "un-cool" and was always accompanied by his trusty yo-yo and mushroom cut. Today, Ben is still "square" and "un-cool" but has replaced his haircut with a somewhat indescribable one and has replaced his yo-yo with his ever-so-cool "The Beetle" (which for some reason Ben thinks is a babe magnet). When I come and try to remember what Chandler has done in the past, the first thing that pops in my head are those weird things he used to say (the Greeks were damn kinky?!?) and all those weird actions he did. Those were some of the good times we shared at Grammar. But where will Ben be 10 years from now? Will he be living on Hollis Street or will he be pursuing his dream of becoming a sailor/pirate? In the end though, I'm sure things should turn out great for you. You've been a great guy and an even better friend. Good luck wherever you go, Chandler; and may you have a great rest of your life.

One final word of wisdom: don't drink the Halifax Harbor's water.

See ya man, Rostom

LYNNE CLARKO

Lynne, Clarko, Nupergokie, has been at Grammar off and on for 5 years. This girl is hilarious and is always ready to have fun. She's super athletic, she played basketball (yeah right bench), did badminton, ran track and was captain of the soccer team. She also did musical, "Oh My God!" and did Yearbook. We will always remember this hyper-child, her getting dragged on the floor by Pigott, the Quebec trip (best night ever at the revolving restaurant), and all the missions. Chances are the best memories you have at HGS, involve Lynne; like chicken dance, "sticky balls" at the CAIS tournament, and the "What's Luv?" pool dance. Ever since she was little she's always known how to have fun; flower and branch, potions, circus song, Dreams at 4 A.M. and tons more. Now she's moved on to bigger and better things like skinny-dipping in the day at Kyla's cottage. She was commonly seen with all her boys, she even had turkey dinner with the fellas. You will never meet another person quite like Lynne and she is someone you'll never forget. If you need someone to turn to she'll always be there and tell you the truth. This girl is amazing. I have known her for 13 years and I can honestly say she is the best friend I have ever had. I'll miss her like crazy next year, but I know we'll never lose touch. There is no way these 250 words can do this girl justice but I wanted to thank her for everything.

ANDREA CONROY

Andrea, (aka Andie or Princess) is one red-head that will never be forgotten within the walls of the Grammar School, or between the white lines of the soccer field. Andie's hard work, dedication and devotion to soccer earned her a starting spot on the soccer team for the past three years, and helped them to be known as a force to be reckoned with. Within the walls of Grammar, Andie is well-known for her contagious laugh, her sophisticated style and her keen fashion sense. She can truly achieve anything she puts her mind too. However, there is only one thing that this girl can't do and that is eat meat or wheat. That does not stop her from ordering high-class meals and high-class restaurants. Her future plans include becoming a successful lawyer and living in the high class part of Italy. Her closest friends see Andrea lying on a beach, working on her tan with Dawson, while talking on the phone with her dear client Ralph. Andrea will always be remembered for giving her honest opinion, solid advice, and never letting any of her friends settle for anything but the best. We all know that whatever you put your mind to, you will achieve the impossible.

CHRIS CORKUM

"A good head and a good heart are always a formidable combination."

Nelson Mandela

Some people always seem more together, more self-possessed, more mature than the rest of us. We hate these people.

It is therefore tempting to dislike Chris, but somehow he pulls off his self-confidence with such understated charm that it's hard to do so. Chris weathers every storm as if it's just part of the original plan. Solid, firm, loyal, and balanced. A most annoying set of attributes for a high school student but true of Chris nevertheless.

Of course the story isn't quite as rosy as it may seem with Chris. He is annoyingly hard working as well; often making his colleagues look less than adequate in the eyes of their teachers. He is disturbingly rational; often making his teachers look less than adequate in the eyes of their students. He is infuriatingly reasonable, making those of us who are incoherent and arbitrary seem less than perfect.

The Grammar School is no place for the likes of Chris. We are glad to be rid of him.
R Marchand

BRENDAN CROSKERRY

"Don't worry about it"—Brendan

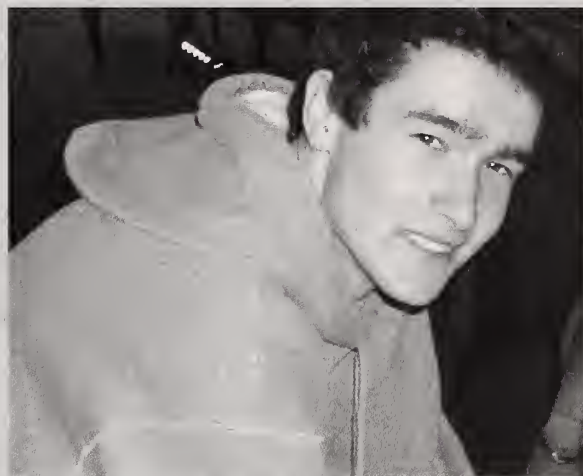

Brendan has survived two years of Grammar, only failing Physics a few times. He has really brought his energy to the hallways—so much energy that it was a real feat for him to stay still for five minutes without twitching. BCross has created many happy memories which will forever be remembered by his friends, such as drinking a liter of cream, eating laxatives, and pulling fire alarms (all "by accident"). Whether he becomes a bone doctor or a professional snooker player, we can be sure that he will be unforgettable.

SCOTT DUMARESQ

I don't think any one of us knew half the man that Scott was until that fateful day in November when he astonished us all by not sleeping for a whole 60 hours! Obviously, there's a lot more to Scott than meets the eye. Among Scott's many talents is his mathematical genius, his unbelievable lifeguarding/swimming instructing, and his amazing ability to rationalize listening to Creed.

Scott, being the ambitious and cool dude that he is, has already prepared himself extensively for his upcoming career as a stunt driver. Too bad they never make movies about high speed car chases involving mini-vans!

Needless to say I've never met someone with such huge untapped potential. I know what you're thinking Scotty, am I being sarcastic? Of COURSE not. —d.p.

JEFF ENGLEHUTT

"Fellas, let's get'em" — Mat Kiberd

"Just give'er" —Andrew Pigott

Jeff Englehutt likes to run, and run he shall. Ever since he came to Grammar in grade 8, he has been known for his running ability and dashing good looks. He will likely continue to take extended foot journeys at 20 km/h (he thinks) at the university level, whether in the United States or Canada. Some standout moments for Jeff during his illustrious career at the Grammar School are the failed attempts at "Project Amazing" or any of the other missions. Anywho, when asked what his greatest achievement was, he convincingly answered Lynne and his many victories in track and cross-country. There is one thing that Jeff has left to say, "What's up to all the fellas (and Lynne), you know what I'm talking about."

MICHAEL FRANK

"Normal people get boring, then you have to kill them." –Mike Frank

"I know I have a procrastination problem, and I'm going to fix it, when I get around to it." –Mike Frank

"Smile, love with all your heart, give of yourself selflessly. Do what is right and just according to your heart, not according to society. Be yourself and finally smile." –Mike Frank

Mike Frank is, quite simply, an amazing person, with his cheerful self being an integral part of Grammar for the last three years. He has been a crucial member of so many HGS activities, whether winning awards at debating trips, starring in musicals, or coaching fencing. His accomplishments stretch from organizing the Commonwealth to being the ultimate master of "Bomb Jack" at the fantastic Quebec trip. But mere words do not do Mike justice. Rarely has someone been so eager to help and counsel people, even planning to counsel adolescents in the future. Rarely has someone influenced and inspired the life of his friends and his school so very much. Rarely has someone had such a profound love of humanity. I am deeply honored to have known Mike for these years. Good luck in the future ArchAngel!

THOM FORSYTH

"Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall." –Confucius

Thom came to Grammar for one year, and what an experience that turned out to be! He survived the classes with flying colors, and his intelligence has always remained clear, especially after scoring in the 96th percentile on an intelligence test. Outside the classroom, Thom has contributed much, being a valued member of our hockey team. Moreover, Thom's Grammar experience was certainly enriched by the Keji trip and by the zany events that are part of everyday life here at Grammar, such as the cake-war between Tolson and Dr. Chapman. Finally, good luck Thom, and have fun sailing all over the world!

LAURA FROST

Laura first ventured to this unfamiliar country to study in grade eleven from her homeland of Germany and we have been privileged to keep her for another year. Laura has an unfailingly sweet and good-natured personality that is rare. She always has a kind or encouraging word for everyone she meets and is never found without an engaging smile on her face. Laura will undoubtedly demonstrate her musical talent (which also includes nine years as a violinist) in this year's HGS musical. Laura aspires to become a plastic surgeon and to live in a yet unknown country, where she will surely be successful! Her academic drive and ability to overcome the challenge of attending the Grammar School while living on her own in Canada are to be admired! Laura would like to thank her parents, brother Fabian, friends, Julian, Lea, Sebastian, Allan and Chris, who have made her time in Canada so much better and whose support have helped her survive the Grammar School. Best of luck Laura, you will be missed!

LEANNE HUCK

Leanne, aka Flea to everyone she knows, is known for her athletic ability, which goes far beyond what anyone would consider ordinary. She always strives for excellence which is through her focus and dedication. Thus, Leanne was an integral part and made tremendous contributions to the soccer, basketball and especially TRACK! (Since she is a superstar). Leanne began her tenure at the Grammar School in grade 10, and since then she has changed the lives of all those around her, turning her chaotic and crazy ways on everyone at HGS. You can usually spot this girl from anywhere, cruisin in Clifford with her matted albino locks. Her cleanliness was first class, leaving cream corn in her hair overnight (thanks to Harry), her car having a "featured" smell once a week, and always having a trail of clothes leading to her room. This fun-loving girl is one of the most interesting people I know, finding complete joy in messing up a certain someone's arrangement of shoes, and spraining her ankle in celebration. Besides her obsession with fanny packs, you could say she's cool. Well the boys seem to think so. Leanne is best known for her contagious laugh, obsessions with garlic fingers, her super long legs and finding everything frickin' hilarious. I know this crazy girl from Prospect will go far in life. Never stop rocking to Sum 41, crowd surfing to Sloan, or blasting to "Let's Get Married," and if you ever lose contact with this girl, just look for the carnies and you'll find her somewhere near. Good luck in the future and never stop laughing – it's what makes you so great. COUNTY FOR LIFE HUN! We all know you will excel with whatever you do; it is just the way you are. Go get em Flea, we'll always be cheering for you.

ALMIRA HUSSAIN

Here's to Almira! My best friend and so much more. Although it's been a short time, I felt like I've known her forever. The friendship she has shown can be matched by no other. From cracking windshields (so sorry about that!!!) to losing rulers at Superstore, I will always remember and cherish the time we spent together: the best times that I've ever known. I can't even imagine where I'd be without Almira and no matter how far apart we end up, we'll always be together. She's the better half of my brain and always in my heart. Here's to the best friend I will ever know! Cheers!

MAT KIBERO

Hey guys...it's all nice and stuff" —A very, very wise and sexy man
 "Look! It's a bear" —The fellas

Mat has only one T in his name, but that is what makes him unique. Besides occasionally attending school, Mat spends most of his time preparing to be the Keshawn Johnson of CIS Football and chillin' with his fellas and Lynne. Mat's other infamous talent is his mysterious ability to acquire certain products at far less than retail price. This leads us to believe that if football fails, at least Mat will be a successful businessman. What Mat remembers most about his childhood is winning the provincial football championship and rookie of the year the first year he ever played football. Is this guy going to be an all star or what! I'll call it right now, his first CIS play, he's going to catch a 30-yard pass and go straight to the end zone. Any who, Mat send a shout out to the fellas (including Lynne) and don't worry Mat, we'll always know what you're talking about.

ROBERT KITZ

Robert Findlay Kitz has graced Grammar's halls since late '90, and his academic career has prospered immensely over his long haul of being one of the few lifers graduating this year. He has demonstrated numerous times the fruits of his intelligence, but always doing so in a humble and clever way that made people feel terrible about themselves afterwards, and inferior too. Findlay: the man with the blonde cascade flowing from his head, as I know him, is a senior member of the HGS ski team, editor of the HGS student newspaper, and a proverbial cornerstone of both the cross-country and track teams. But when I look at Rob, I don't see the competition fuelled animal or the articulate intellectual powerhouse, I see a resourceful youngster who I can refer to as my partner in crime. Robert is seemingly always around the school, ready to help out in any way he can, giving out his special type of advice, which usually involves either a stakeout or building a robot of some form or another. Rob has always been much more clever than me, and I have envied him for years. I wish I was as smart as Robert, he is one of the smartest and resourceful people I've ever met. Which is bizarre, considering that he explains he grew his hair out (exceedingly) long "by accident" and his idea of a "special kind of karaoke machine with a filter that doesn't allow secular songs." It is difficult to give due credit to a diamond in the rough like Robert, but I know that he is going to rise above the rest, will prove to be superior to all his peers, and someday make his ideas forcibly imposed on others. Robert, you are a respectable man, a hero, and a muse. Thank you for your freindship, and good luck in life. -KAP

JULIANE KOWOLLIK

"Enjoy your life, there is enough time to be dead."

I first of all want to thank you for the great time we had together and everything you have done. I think we went through the hardest but also best time of our lives together. I certainly won't forget our school dances, our time in the opferecke and Montreal.. However, while we had ups and downs, nothing could really bring us down, because we could take everything with humor. I guess that's what life is about. You are a very special person, and not just a German girl!

You became one of my best friends and I guess I will have a harder time without my man.. my pet, etc. I won't forget you guys.

Juliaaaaaane, I know you can do it (anyway), and I know that you'll make your way (to Dr. Stefan Fank). Don't dream your life but live your dreams!

Your weib/hammer/sometimes maybe stressbacke and often referred to as Lea.

NATHANAEL LAROCHE TTE

"If you're not into metal, you are not my friend." -MANOWAR

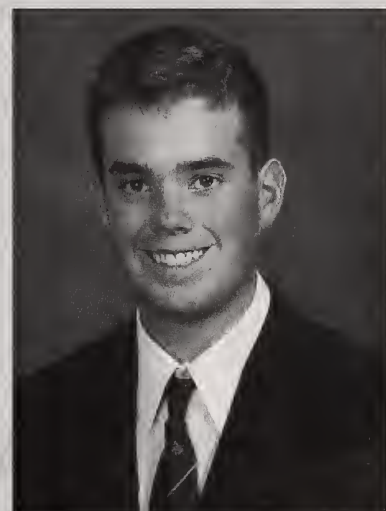

I came to Grammar (or was I forced to come?) way back in grade 10 and from that day on it's been quite an experience. Despite all of the pain, suffering, guilt, regret, stress, anguish and torment, I have enjoyed my stay here. While some may know me as the amazing shooter from the Junior Varsity boys basketball team, those closer know me as the crazy Frenchman on a never-ending quest to spread the word about the best genre of music: METAL! Remember my name as you will most likely be hearing it in the future affiliated with either the most famous radio show in the world, or the most famous melodic death-metal band in the industry. Other than discovering the greatness that is metal, one of the best memories I have from this school would be in the form of our grade 11 Quebec Trip, one of the best trips, ever! If you want a better understanding, just look at the picture. My biggest achievement in the past few years is split between my lovely afro and meeting all of the hilarious people at this school; they know who they are! Just remember boys and girls no matter how much you hate school now, chances are that you will look back on your years at this school with more fond memories than negative ones. Peace

THOMAS MACLAREN

"Drink the cream Crowsberry!" -Tom

Tmac has gone through two years of Grammar, even managing to pass Higher Level Math. May it be clear that Prefect Tom's contribution to the school has been invaluable. As one example out of many, Tom singlehandedly created the all-important guitar club. Congrats to surviving the school; whether you will be owning a cactus ranch and some cows, kicking butt at the golf course, or just chillin', you will be sure to go far in life.

HECTOR MACQUARRIE

Although Hector is a world-class bagpiper and is all things that are Antigonish, Mr. Moffat unfortunately extinguished his greatest accomplishment. (Keji bonfire). It was even bigger than Mr. Rodney's bonfire, which Mr. Rodney never realized because we couldn't get his attention. Even Hector's famous calls of "Hey Yarmouth" and "Wally's in trouble, come quick" couldn't tear his attention away from his tiny little excuse for a bonfire. Besides building fires Hector is also great at stormin, (Geo Stormin). Although he says his stormin days are numbered, (its broken), the storms main purpose was to get Hector to Antigonish where he lobster fished, rode his Honda four wheeler, and brought us the one and only T Totally Thompson. So where will Hector be in ten years... probably Antigonish. Anyways Hector keep'er between the ditches and Ride Red.

MEAGHAN MACPHEE

Meaghan, a.k.a. pheemac, has been at HGS since way back in grade 8. Ever since then we've come to love her, and we know we won't forget her. She's hilarious and you can't miss this redhead's energetic laugh. She'll crackup at anything or bawl her eyes out with you, like at A Walk to Remember when the lady in front of her offered her a tissue. This girl cares about her friends more than anything and goes all out for them. She will always be remembered for her outstanding hostess abilities like at our Secret Santa Christmas Party. Those men were good! Just make sure she doesn't shake milk on you. She helped make Quebec one of the best trips ever. If you're ever in trouble you can count on Meaghan to help you out with her lifeguard abilities, but if you are looking for some fun, you're guaranteed a trip to Pirate's Cove or a Vin Diesel movie. The only thing is when it comes to boys she doesn't have the guts to say no. Meaghan is a superb student and was also noted for her dominance on the volleyball court (when we actually had a team). We love this girl and we know she'll go far. Thanks for the good times.

KYLA MAGNUS

"What state is Argentina in?" -Leanne Huck

"Life does not put things in front of you that you are unable to handle." -Unknown

"It was radical." -Alexis Michael and Ms. Efimov

There is too much to say about Kyla (a.k.a. K-man, KyKy, Kela). This superstar has been kickin it with the big girls on the A-Team for four years, and has proved herself worthy as captain for the last two. She also had an awesome soccer career, but it was short lived due to a tragic knee injury back in the day. She has a hot ride and we all know the Pussy wagon can beat Clifford any day, or you can just try and high-five the guys in the car next to you from shottie. I guess in the B-Dot they don't drive standards with two feet. She's really dedicated and basically..perfect?! Well except for her speech impediment (again/ahen) and when she acts "too zoolanderish" with the Shelster. She's been through hard times but she's a tough cookie. You can count on her for hilarious times: we've been "too happy", played extreme croquet in Pugwash, and had fun on the beach naked..wait that wasn't Kyla, kayaking with our seatbelts on. Kyla's greatest skill is definitely her ability to make strawberry daiquiris (virgin of course) and her trendsetting, because people always end up copying her (cough cough). This girl is tricky so you better watch out, cause you never know when she is gonna trick you into thinking you're in Halifax, when you're really in Prospect.

If you ever tutor her she'll take you out to Il Mercado cause she loves her friends that much, until she finds out she only got a 70 (sorry bout that). She's got a wicked sense of fashion, even her bathing suit goes on loan, and she looks especially hot in a rugby dress. This girl is the most amazing person, and the best, most honest friend you'll ever have. We know she's accomplished a lot already but she's going on to bigger things. I love ya forever and good luck in the future.

MATT MILLER

To come from a "columbine-esq" American high school with 2500 people to an antiquated Canadian Grammar School with merely 150 senior students was an intimidating task to say the least. I won't lie, I was afraid. That fear soon dissipated, however, for I soon discovered something that would change my outlook on this institution forever: This was where I belonged. While in years past, I had to struggle to find an appropriate niche, I was now in a place where individuality was commended and conformity was rare. I have many memories from HGS, both bad and good, to cherish for the rest of my life. To fail to mention the Keji trip would be to do an injustice. Keji was a truly extraordinary experience where we went in as a class and came out as a family. However I was privileged to work with Kent, Will, and Stephanie, and that is something I will never forget. Thanks guys. I would also like to thank the rest of my peers. I will try to remember each and every one of you as best I can. Thank you for the memories.

Lastly, I would like to thank my parents, Rhonda and Tom. You provided me with the opportunity to succeed. I tried my best not to waste it. I hope you are proud of me. What's in store for Matt Miller in the future? Doctor? Pro wrestler? Bull dozer operator? Who knows. There is only one thing I am certain of, and that's that I will enjoy my life to the fullest and cherish each memory as I have done with this one. So until next time, I bid each and every one of you, Adieu...

Congratulations and Best Wishes to the Graduating Class!

RAVI MISHRA

"There is much pleasure to be gained from useless knowledge."

Bertrand Russell

"Non violence is the first article of my faith. It is also the article of my creed."—Mohandas Karamchad Gandhi

"Man goes into the noisy crowd to drown his own clamour of silence."—Rabindranath Tagore

Occasionally a non sequitur slips past everyone's lips, but for Ravi the art of the absurd is more of a calling than a matter of accident. He can stop a conversation dead with just a few well placed words that have all the music and trappings of reason, but manage to leave you to vainly attempt to wed two ideas that have no business being in the same room. It is a skill that few people other than teachers and those who apply for government grants have mastered.

Despite this amusing talent, Ravi has managed to slip under the radar somewhat, academically speaking anyway. He does actually know what he's talking about most of the time, a most annoying trait; and yet he manages to seem to have so much fun fostering confusion. More Ravi! I say. The world would be even more absurd than it is now, and make more sense at the same time. —R Marchand

WILL MUSHKAT

*"Nobody can get the truth out of me, because even I don't know what it is. I keep myself in a constant state of utter confusion."—Col. Flagg from M*A*S*H

Fedja: "Looks like you need Hooked on Phonics, Will"

Mushkat: "Yeah, cause I'm hooked on chronics."

I came to this school as a wee lad in primary, in that great year of 1990. The horrors of the 80's had finally come to an end (with the exclusion of one former HGS teacher), and we looked forward to sunnier times ahead. From day one I realized that it was imperative, if I wished to succeed at HGS, that I must always strive to achieve the highest degree of academic excellency. By day two I realized that HGS would be a lot more fun if I did everything half-way, while half-baked . . . and that pretty much sums up the past 13 years of my life. My greatest accomplishment at HGS is, without a doubt, passing, but I also take pride in the fact that many HGS students have a greater respect for me than most of the Middle School Teaching Staff (not Mr. Ellis of course). HGS has been worth every minute. I wish everyone the best of luck, and hope you all become rich and successful, cause I'll be there to borrow money.

ANDREW PIGOTT

"I'm gonna FLY to the dance!"—Craig

"Mr. Pigott, you look better every time I see you"—Mr. Marchand

Andrew Pigott will always be known for wearing sweatpants everyday of the year. Whether it's his newest sweatpants-overalls or another of his 7 pairs, you can always count on seeing the famous "Ed's Tractor Services" hat and lumberjacket. If only he could drive the Spectacula Acura without stalling, his A-MAZ-ING good looks wouldn't be the only thing that attracted girls named Blair. Some of Pigott's fondest memories during his years at Grammar were the unconcluded "Project Amazing," and the Quebec trip; I wonder where those Subway sandwiches ended up any way! I guarantee everyone has seen Pigott "thrusting" anything that crosses his path, most commonly Acadia and Jamie. If there is one place Pigott can always be found, it's with the fellas and Lynne givin'er down in "Look! It's a bear." One thing that will always be a part of Pigott is his everlasting devotion to Keith; he's a good guy, and we will always remember him as a tool for cutting his hair.

JOSE PIL

"Verbosity leads to unclear, inarticulate things." -Senator Dan Quayle

"What a waste it is to lose one's mind. Or not to have a mind is being very wasteful. How true that is." -Vice President Dan Quayle

"Hawaii has always been a very pivotal role in the Pacific. It is in the Pacific. It is a part of the United States that is an island that is right here." -Vice President Dan Quayle

Jose Kris Robert Estrella Pil has been anything but ordinary during his two years at HGS. Originally from the Philippines and Singapore, the Token Asian Guy has fit in perfectly, only occasionally having to deal with angry teachers who can't accept essential qualities of his cultural heritage (ie wearing hats in school). Successfully mastering many skills, the Thrilla from Manila's talents range from being a master of Tagalog, English, and maybe Mandarin (yup, Chinese school sure taught you a lot...), to guitar (as shown at Keji), to web-page designing (current page complete with tablature, pictures, and musings! . . . hopefully coming soon. . .). Exceptionally intelligent, he's academically outstanding and has even made distinguished appearances on the Math Team. Personally, I believe that the founder of the "J. P. School of Academic Excellence" and the author of "So You Wanna Go to a Prep School" is a tutor that even Toru Kumon would be proud of. Indeed, Farmer Joe radiates friendliness and goodwill to all, spreading happiness through an all too cynical school. Leaving Grammar will be an ending but also a glorious new beginning, and the world better be ready for ya, cuz I'm sure you'll always succeed wherever you go.

KENT PLUMMER

"Don't mess with the bull, young man. You'll get the horns" -Richard Vernon

"My biggest regret in life is that I didn't hit John Denver in the mouth while I had the chance." -Denis Leary

After Mr. Messenger explained that his wife wouldn't let him use a chainsaw, it seemed only natural that he would ask Kent to come cut down trees for him. The students, too, showed their faith in Kent, electing him their head boy. Because, beneath it all, everyone knows that Kent Axlander Plummer is a responsible, dedicated, hard working individual, with Herculean strength, Shakespearean eloquence, and a Ghandi-esqu demeanor. In his roles as Captain of the Ski Team, Star of "12 Angry Men", President of the HGS Wrestling Society, Head Boy, notable philanthropist, and huge rock star, Kent has shown that leadership skills that will lead him to success. "I just want to rip people off," Kent once said of his aspirations in business. And yet, there is a nobility that permeates his words. For you see, Kent offers an alternative to commonplace simplistic modes of "thought", with a heightened sense of truth and justice that extends far beyond the conventional. I don't know what kinds of things they teach you at , but Kent was always known exactly where it's at. At times, I see Kent simply as my more successful counterpart. However, the reality is, Kent is in a league of his own, with talent equaled only by my pretension. Good luck Kent, I hope you never get sent to prison for white collar crimes. Respectfully, RFK

RACHEL POTTER

"Wit is educated insolence." -Anon

"It is the mark of an educated mind to be able to entertain a thought without accepting it." -Aristotle

"Women should be obscene and not heard." -Groucho Marx

(K+R)P "Its not that I don't believe in you, its just that I don't care."

Rachel makes me mad sometimes and I think she is a bad friend, but I've known her for a long time. I realize that just because we might get into a fight, because she neglects to pick me up and leaves me waiting on a bench for three hours, it all balances out. All the good times that I've had with Rachel far, far outweigh the bad. Honestly, she is one of the funniest, intelligent, (also beautiful) people I know. People always say that they will remain friends after high school, but for this most part this is bull and in reality, the majority will drift. One thing I know for sure though, that no matter what happens, even if we don't talk for years our superior friendship will remain intact forever.

DEVON PROUDFOOT

Devon (or should I say Kevin?) is a person that is truly admired by everyone who knows her. Her modesty and tendency for self-doubt are astounding considering her record of perfect TOK papers and essays that win her publication in "the Concord Review." But, Devon's charming personality makes resentment for her genius impossible! Devon is often found running around the hallways in a panic, trying to fix the latest catastrophe and has yet to figure out why disaster always seems to befall her! I'm sure Devon will always remember the memorable times she's spent in German class (being the most motivated student in that class and all) and her adventures on the German trip in grade ten. Devon will always be remembered for her ability to find the humor in every situation, the suspicious teeth marks on many of her belongings, her willingness to wear socks and sandals in the middle of winter, and her love of reality shows and Mary-Kate and Ashley movies (the secret is out!). I know she will be at the top wherever she goes next year and in the future. Here's to Devon!

KATE READ

Kate has honored the Grammar School with her presence for the past 4 years. I have had the privilege to know her for the past 3. She lives in Hali but she is a Bedford girl at heart, she loves that place (not too sure why but...j/k). At school you could either find Kate in the library working hard or in the halls chatin with friends. Kate is one of the hardest workers I've ever met. Her hard work pays off as she has been consistently been on the honor roll since she began her reign at Grammar. She not only excels in school but she helps other people do the same. Kate is greatly appreciated among her friends, as she is always there to provide the help they require. Kate always puts the needs of others before herself. She is extremely dedicated to everything she does and spends more of her hours volunteering her time than she actually has free. Even though, Kate works hard at her schoolwork she still knows how to have fun. Kate is known for "letting lose" at dances! Kate is involved heavily in school activities as she is the captain of her basketball team and was an energetic presence on the soccer field. Kate also debates and is a member of the guitar club (we're both really getting good at A!). Kate's been through a lot and when you want to talk to her she will drive around with you for hours until everything is settled. She is very understanding and if you forget to call her back she will forgive you time and time again. Kate is always there to make you laugh, even if she doesn't mean to! (Watch out for those soccer bags they'll get ya every time!). Kate has big plans for after high school and I know where ever she ends up she will be successful because she works too hard not to. Thanks Kate for all the help laughs, memories, and black jube-jubes.

CHANDRA ROCKWELL

"People are like stain glass windows: they sparkle and shine when the sun is out, but when the darkness sets in their true beauty is revealed only if there is a light within."

-Elizabeth Kubler-Ross

"Sadness and aloneness are painful, but at the same time, they are beautiful and real. Out of that comes longing to help others. Being willing to work with others arises spontaneously. Because you care for yourself, therefore, equally you care for others,"

-Chögyam Trungpa

In looking back on my four years at Grammar, I feel completely amazed at the amount I have learned and an extreme appreciation for those who have taught it to me. I need to "find myself", as the saying goes, and hence I will be taking next year off. Finding oneself is an interesting phrase; it seems to imply that somehow you were lost. Indeed, I do feel a part of me got lost in the academic vigor of the Grammar School. The nature-loving, animal-whispering, zany, inquisitive, spiritual, and creative parts of me did always fit into the piece at Grammar. Instead, I often found myself a very serious, focused and intellectual student. Luckily, these qualities in myself did not die completely thanks to the support of Miss Silver and Ms. Efimov.

MARC ROMKEY

"The fastest way to succeed is to look as if you're playing by somebody else's rules, while quietly playing by your own." - Michael Korda

No one knows Romkey, least of all me. But what I do know is frightening. Content, like Prince Hal, to pick his moment to shine; he has accidentally revealed himself on several occasions. His persistent schemes to make money from some perceived opportunity have more often than not produced surprisingly impressive results. Take a look at his lawn aeration business for example. Oh, granted he does have a tendency to overlook the occasional detail such as forgetting to ask Mr. Boyle the size of his property before fixing a price, but how many students would have undertaken such a ridiculous idea in the first place.

Marc Romkey; persistent goof. Marc Romkey, budding entrepreneur. Will the true Marc Romkey please stand up? -R Marchand

ARWEN ROSS

"Die as young as possible, but put it off as long as you can." -Unknown

"The early bird gets the worm, but the second mouse gets the cheese." -

Sign in a gas station

"Hell is other people." -Sartre

Arwen has been attending the Grammar School for nine and a half years now, an achievement all on its own. Arwen is known for her imagination and superior story-writing abilities, for which she has rightly won writing prizes from the school. She represents the school as a seasoned member of the debating team (watch out when Arwen employs her debating skills in any heated TOK discussions!) and has also been a member of the drama club. Arwen's academic interests clearly lie in the arts, as shown by her frustration at Mr. Marchand's assertion that the scientific method is completely faulty, while refusing to let her drop her science classes. Arwen aspires to become an actress (not surprising given her abilities and love of dressing in costume) and to move to Europe, probably Scandinavia, right away. Arwen would like to thank all the teachers she's had for their patience in putting up with "my chronic procrastination and severe lack of work ethic." She would particularly like to thank Mme Smith and Ms Efimov for taking the time to listen to her "chatter". Good luck in all your future endeavors, Arwen

AHMED ROSTOM

"Ahmed, you're a crazy mamma!" -Jose Pil

Ahmed (AKA: Rostom, Rostomatic, Secret Squirrel, Rico Muérté) Rostom. He went by many names at the Grammar School. Okay so maybe I made that up, we really only ever called him Ahmed. He was a good man, a kind man, one that will forever be missed. This is sounding like he has died, but quite the opposite; he is probably just as alive as ever, which really isn't saying much. He came to our sometimes humble school in grade eight, and quickly became Grammar's token Egyptian guy, with a fro that could only be envied. From then on, he befriended many, including myself; and from then on, has consistently made Egyptian-style remarks such as poking people with pyramids. He has added a lot of laughter to our grade, which at Grammar, is always helpful. There were many "different" things about Ahmed that were hard to understand, like the weird sounds that he would randomly make. Most of all we will probably remember Ahmed for his strange sense of humor that was sometimes scary, but always funny, and his kindness towards the other members of the class. That constant smile of his will never be seen in the halls of the Grammar school again, and even though that's bad for the student body, it's great for him. Wherever he goes, I know that he will do well and whatever he does, even if it is act in a Portuguese film like he hopes, I'm sure that he will be good at it, and will also make people happy. Success will greet him at every turn. Here is to you our little Egyptian Pharaoh, may you find happiness in whatever you do, and may the sun never set on your dreams or your day at the beach. You've been a great friend. Thanks. -Chandler

MEREDITH SALISBURY

"If all else fails, play dead." -Red Green

When you think of Meredith, perhaps the first thing that comes to mind is her uncanny ability to make farm-animal noises on cue. Or maybe it's her other amazing musical abilities, most notably involving her precious oboe. See, the thing about Mer is that she can flip back and forth from wacky to serious while at the same time showing us all to shame with her amazing academic drive and natural abilities. One thing that will never change though, is Mer's undying love for chemistry and her dislike of certain other sciences. Meredith can always be counted on for great advice or the occasional witty yet shocking(!) candid remark. She cites her greatest achievement as learning to appreciate her height, (5'2"- Nothing wrong with that!) but we all know that Meredith is destined to achieve so much more! It's been a crazy 3 years but you made it Mer, and just think, the line between genius and insanity is so debatable!-d.p.

FEDJA SARIC

"The greatest risk is not taking one."

Fedja came from Cincinnati to Grammar for one amazing year. By the end of the wonderful Keji trip, I realized what an amazing person Fedja is. Coming from Bosnia, he's somehow made his way all the way to the Halifax Grammar School. Fedja certainly adjusted to the academics of Grammar easily, which is no surprise, Fedja being a member of the National Honor Society, an exclusive organization for high-achieving students. Whether showing his skills at Model United Nations, debating, or swimming, "Habib" always proves that he is on top of his game. Good luck in the future; once again, you're off for new worlds and new adventures. But whether you settle in New York or Chicago, or keep traveling, I'm sure everything will turn out great.

LEA SCHMIDT

"Really rich is someone who has more dreams in his soul than reality can destroy."

Lea has been attending the Grammar School for two years. She came into our lives from Germany and leaves us to study in Paris. If you're looking for Lea in ten years she'll be running her own law firm in Southern France with at least three kids. Despite the strains of living on her own in a new country, Lea has always stayed loyal to herself and for this, she should be admired. I always knew that I would have a good time with her and appreciate the friendship she has shown. Lea would like to extend thanks to her parents & sisters, Lisa, Laura, Julianne, Julia, Anna, Bianca, Christian, Nathalie, Georg, Nadine, Sabine, Fiona, Kirstin, Tabitha, Allison, The Gallachers, Anne-Sylvie, Robin, Alizee, Florian, Barain, Allan and Chris

CHAD SMITH

Dun, do you wanna get slapped?" D'mitri Butterfield

"Aaight, I got a couple thangs to go over."- Coach Mantley

"Man, what's up with all this work cuz. This school is whack." -Eli Goree

"I'm not nervous, not at all. How did you know?" Mark Cwajna

"The author was a communist, therefore he practiced communism."-D'mitri Butterfield

Chad has been attending Grammar for three years, where he put on a fine show for the Varsity Basketball team, with their expensive jerseys and all. It was safe to say his life and number one love was ball, until he began skipping class for chess. Chad plans to attend university next year and study business, but it's likely he'll end up on Canada's national squad or making the big bucks playing pro in Europe. His greatest memories include his trip to Toronto with the Grammar team way back in grade 10, and the Bio 1 exam with all its photosynthesis questions when they only spent 15 minutes on it in class, since their teacher was late. Other unforgettable times consist of Mr. Rodney's Barbecue analogies in Business and Management, his sarcastic comments, and of course, Meaghan Sullivan's party in grade ten. Chad's biggest achievement thus far has been coming second at nationals this past summer with the NS Juvenile provincial basketball team, but we expect there are many more to come. In Chad's words, "This school has had its ups and tons of its downs, but overall I think it's all been worth it. Once the cramming, last minute studying, and Independent Labs are finished, I think that it will all be worth it." We agree Smitty, but we'll miss you. Good luck in the future...not that you need it.

MEAGHAN SULLIVAN

Meaghan Sullivan (aka Feaghan, Seaghan Mullivan, Sully my far, Moogster) Meaghan came to HGS way back in grade 10 from here dear old hometown... Guysborough. Yes, she's a hick and she does miss her 4-wheeler sometimes but my years at Grammar would not have been the same without her screaming, laughing or chasing someone down the halls. Meaghan is the funniest and craziest girl you'll ever meet. Many of best memories from the past 3 years involve this hilarious girl. She is always smiling and up for adventures, especially random ones (bubbles in the Point Pleasant fountain, birthday hat @ QE). This is the most generous kid you will meet: you can go to her house (even if no one is home) for homemade chocolate chip cookies, peanut butter and banana bagels (bought especially for you), her dad's yummy pasta or just to decorate her room. This girl is always there to listen; like at the park or the ones in her laundry room. She has the ability to make anyone laugh. And don't think about staying mad at her, it's impossible. Another great thing about being friends with Feaghan is that she either is attracting or chasing boys. She is boy crazy; there was Dartmouth boy, Feret or just chasing randoms with Shelly. You can always get boy advice from this girl or you can just get for a lesson from her uncle's sex book. We always have good times at the beach in the summers and trips to the store for some udderly divine or bananas. Meaghan has played basketball for the school for the past three years. She upgraded from the JV team after one year cause she's got mad skills. She has also played soccer and will be remembered for her energy on and off the field and no one will forget this defender or her grunts, sexual or otherwise. This sporty, crazy, party girl is hilarious and we love her to death.

MIZUKA TANIMOTO

"Nothing is so strong as gentleness and nothing is so gentle as real strength."

Ralph W. Sockman

People sometimes underestimate Mizuka's power and fail to see what seems obvious upon further reflection. She came half way around the world to join this little school on the coast of Canada. She endures separation and the awkwardness of an alien culture and language, enduring the sadistic battering from the HGS curriculum and its extraordinary demands. She does so without complaint, without fanfare. She just does it, her resilience fostering the kind of admiration that soldiers who have shared the same trenches bestow upon each other.

One wonders why she would do such a thing and keep such a low profile while doing it. The obvious conclusion: she is in the witness protection program and HGS seemed the least likely venue in which to be found. Makes sense, right?

Then again, she lacks the nasty edginess of a mob informant so my theory may have to be revised. While she may not be dangerous in the physical sense, those who know her well will agree that the disarmingly kind nature of her spirit conceals a biting sense of humor. Watch your back.

Sponsored by the Croskerrys- Good luck to everyone in the transition to university life!

ELIZABETH THOMPSON

"When one door of happiness closes, another opens; but often we look so long at the closed door we do not see the one which has opened for us." – Helen Keller

Sherlock, the Third Musketeer, next to Jesus and the Tax Payer. The final sober thought of every situation, yet the instigator of trouble. The one who is least likely to overtip... again. It's because of you that we'll never be able to look at a flashlight in the same light again. You're still waiting for us to serenade you with KC and Jo-Jo, but we've embarrassed you enough already. There's no denying that whatever you do, you'll be nothing short of perfect. Your radiant smile in school has given not just us, but everyone a brighter perspective from which to view the day. If we were to sum you up with just one word: delicious!

- Almira and Jean

CARA TROELSTRA

"What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us."

Oliver Wendell Holmes

Cara has been living on her own this past year although she has hosted fewer parties than her colleagues felt was wise. She is as steady as the watercraft she so ably guides through the waters of Halifax and Dartmouth. One is tempted to make a metaphorical reference to the contrast between the stillness of the lake surface and the furious intensity below the surface driving the boat forward, but that would be trite. Let me instead tell you what you already know.

Cara has big plans, and even bigger opportunities.

Her athletic prowess will soon open several doors that her artistic sensibility will then turn into unimagined opportunity. Years from now you may find her sipping champagne in the pretentious and rarified atmosphere of a New York gallery disavowing any knowledge of our existence. But if you need her, call on her, and you will soon realize what I have known all along; no Grammar student could have a more loyal friend than Cara. –R Marchand

BEN TURNBULL

"As soon as you find anything that offers amazing possibilities for the improvement of the human condition, it's best to put the lid back on and pretend it never happened." –Terry Pratchett

"I'll have to go to a second-rate college because my idiot partner spent the study period drawing martians." –Bill Watterson, Calvin and Hobbes

"It is a good rule in life never to apologize. The right sort of people do not want apologies, and the wrong sort take a mean advantage of them." –P. G. Wodehouse

Ben has been at the Grammar School since Grade Five. Some, like Mr. Boyle, may constantly tell him to "relax," and even predict Ben's death, but I consider it a privilege to have known Ben. Ben's academic prowess has always been evident, especially in math competitions, as he placed fifth in Canada in grade 10. He's talented in so many ways, excelling at so many activities from playing the piano to programming crazy calculator programs to outrunning the pack at cross country. You're no doubt destined for great things, so good luck in the future! Remember: never look at the other side of the clock.

WILLIAM USHER

"Work hard. Play harder." –Stanfield Trott

"The best times are when you're young."

"Mama said knock you out." –LL Cool J

William Usher came to HGS for Grade 12. The Keji trip first showed everyone what a cool guy Will is. He certainly learned a lot about Grammar, for example when Mr. Messenger fought off Brendan and Lynne in the Headmaster's Chase! He can often be found in the gym or at SMU, amazing everyone with his basketball skills or playing on the Varsity Basketball team. One also mustn't underestimate his "Student of Excellence in Education Award," won in Bermuda. In the future, you'll find Will playing basketball professionally, coaching in the NCAA, and commentating for the NBA. Best of luck for the future Will!

STEPHANIE VAN ZANTEN

Stephanie (to some, also known as Splash) is Head Girl and has been at Grammar since grade 9. I have known Steph since primary, when we would change together behind the curtain at ballet. Since then, we have grown to be best friends with many memories to be remembered. She is captain of the Junior Varsity Girls Basketball Team, and over her three years on the team, she shoots a game average of approximately 3 air balls; left bench sounds right, doesn't it? Everyone with a brother must watch out, she tends to take a liking to them; no one will ever forget, "Oh Justin!" This girl is up for everything: skinny-dipping in broad daylight, or picking flowers and branches off hers and neighbors' lawns. If you are ever going on a long drive, there is no doubt that she can't out-sing the highest volume on the radio (circus song). Some of Stephanie's best memories during her years at HGS were falling out of a certain someone's pants, and going on the hike at Keji. If someone has ever watched shooting stars with a blender and an extension cord...muffle...muffle...it must have been with Steph. She is an amazing friend, the kind that is hard to find, harder to leave, and impossible to forget.

TOLSON WINTERS

Tolson came to Halifax Grammar School sometime before grade 11. It was most likely grade 10. I know this because he was here when I came to HGS in grade 10, but there were no stories about him being here in grade 9. Thus, I can only conclude that he did in fact come in grade 10. Tolson is a good guy with amazing drumming abilities. He also likes to snowboard and was part of the Martock Snowboard Team. He has even been known to do backflips in the half-pipe!! During History class Tolson could be heard unsuccessfully attempting to pronounce Russian and German last names, quite a funny sight. Tolson's other interests include going to Nubody's and eating at Saint Mary's. In his graduation year he played on the school soccer team and went to B.C. where he made an appearance on MTV Canada and gave Mandy Moore a 2 for 1 coupon to Burger King.

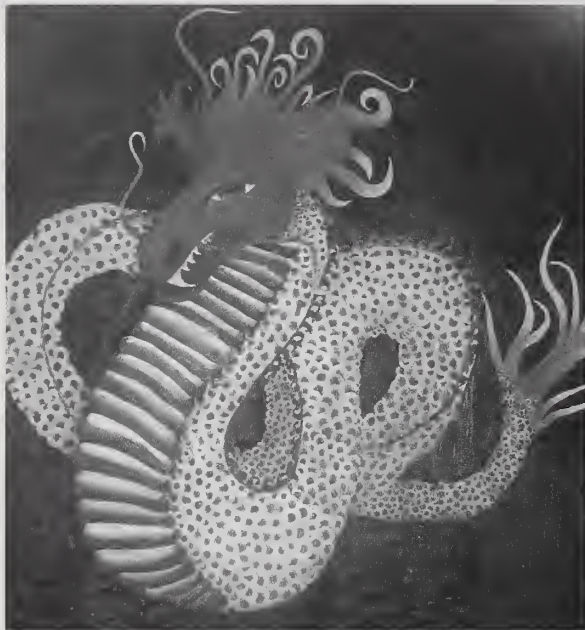

HARRY XU

My friend Harry Xu has been the highlight of my highschool life. I could not remember a day when I did not admire him for his charming personality or his great sense of humour. I've known Harry for about four years now, and I've cherished everyday I've known him. He always puts his friends at the highest priority. (He'll never come to your house at 3 in the morning, sleep on your front step, bushes, or tree, or jump off your deck, or steal your mule and drive it off a cliff, or pee on you, or threaten you with a broken beer bottle, or eat the pepperoni off your pizza and give it to you and tell you that all they had was cheese.) Sometimes I wonder how I am so lucky to have a great friend like Harry. I even sometimes stop to think whether I am good enough to be his friend. (This is because I tend to do a lot of mean things to Harry like eat his lunches, and embarrass him by "falling asleep" and put him in a dress.) Overall, we've had some great times and memories. Hopefully, I will be lucky enough to be his roommate in university, and later on his secretary when he becomes rich and famous. Harry: "I think my leg's broken." Saint John's Ambulance People: "Your leg is broken and you've been walking around on it all night? How did you break it?" Harry: "I was trying to kick my friend and I fell over, it hurts a lot, what should I do?" Saint John's Ambulance people: "Yeah right, here's an ice pack get out of here." "Sometimes I just lie there trying to fall asleep, but I start thinking about all the dumb things you've done and then I just can't stop laughing"-Marc Adam Romkey
